

APOCALYPSO!

Adventures in time, travel and time travel...

"By the end of 2011 we are aware that almost most people currently alive will probably no longer be alive anymore. To marginally increase your chance of survival in the coming apocalypse(s), attend this harrowing presentation. Featuring fun, laughter and a very special guest."

£5, 9.30pm, Friday 2nd December 2011, Hen & Chickens Theatre Bar N1 2NA

2042 - Present Day:

Matt and Stu are fax machine repair specialists from the year 2042. With work drying up like old toner, they happen upon a misplaced time machine. Almost immediately they decide to put the time machine to good use, warning people in the past of the impending apocalypse(s). They have vowed to stop at nothing, work and social life permitting, to educate and save as many people as possible with the use of props, signs and shoddy craftwork.

Apocalypso! will be performing a one-off presentation spectacular on December 2nd of 2011. They will time-travel back from 2042 in the hope that they can educate the most people possible (in the 54 seater venue) about the coming horrors. They will be joined by a very special guest host:
MATTHEW CROSBY (Pappy's, 8 out of 10 Cats)
